It gives me great pleasure, as chairman of Moyle District Council, to introduce the first edition of the Moyle Economic Profile and Trade directory.

The Moyle district has been blessed with one of the most dramatic coastlines on the Island of Ireland, which has, for generations, attracted and inspired visitors from all over the world. Sites of interest such as the breathtaking Carrick-a-Rede Rope Bridge, the beautiful and tranquil Glens of Antrim and the world famous Giant's Causeway, have guaranteed the district's position as one of Northern Ireland's most significant tourist destinations.

The story, however, does not end there. The past two decades have witnessed a steady rise in the district's population. Our growing population, and the increasing popularity of the district as a tourist destination, has contributed to the development of a more dynamic commercial environment, as local businesses have responded to new opportunities.

The Moyle Economic Profile and Trade Directory is a celebration of the diversity and quality of the business and economic life of our district. Its purpose is to act as a comprehensive information resource for existing businesses and potential investors who are keen to learn more about Moyle and the opportunities it can offer.

For ease of use, this publication has been divided into two key sections. Section One provides a socio-economic profile of Moyle, which presents relevant statistical data on the district in a precise, interesting and informative manner. Section Two, the business directory itself, provides a comprehensive current listing of over five hundred businesses operating in the district, across all key industrial and consumer sectors, and categorised by sector. Also included, are relevant contact details for government organisations, utility companies and business support agencies on both a local and regional level. I am also pleased to say that an on-line interactive version of the directory is available on-line at www.moyle-council.org

I hope you will find this publication to be both helpful and interesting and that it becomes an invaluable information resource that you return to time after time.

Catherine McCambridge
Chairman, Moyle District Council.

Moyle District Council

Moyle District Council is one of 26 local authorities in Northern Ireland established by Act of Parliament in 1973.

The council serves a population of just under 16,000 and sees its key mission as: "To provide democratic leadership for the people of the District and to ensure the delivery of efficient and effective services for all of its customers".

The roles and functions of the Council fall into three types:

- A direct role - in which the council is responsible for the direct delivery of certain services. These include: Leisure & Recreation, Refuse Disposal and Collection, Tourism, Economic Development, Community Relations, Community Services, Harbours, Burial Grounds, and Regulatory Services such as Environmental Health and Building Control.
- A representative role - where it's nominees sit as representatives on various other statutory bodies such as the North Eastern Education & Library Board, the Housing Council and the Northern Health & Social Services Council.

- A consultative role - through which the council reflects the views of the community on the operation of certain regional services including Roads, Water and Planning.

Residents of the district are represented by 15 Councillors, who are elected every four years by a system of Proportional Representation. In June 2003, the political composition of the Council was as follows:

PARTY	No. of Members
Social Democratic and Labour (SDLP)	5
Ulster Unionist Party (UUP)	3
Democratic Unionist Party (DUP)	2
Sinn Fein	2
Independents	3

The Chairperson and Vice-Chairperson are elected on a yearly basis at the Council's Annual General Meeting, which is held in June.

Moyle District, with its administrative headquarters in the seaside town of Ballycastle, lies in the North-East corner of Northern Ireland. It includes 42 miles of the breathtakingly beautiful North Antrim coastline, including the Giant's Causeway, and derives its name from "The Straits of Moyle", a local name for the North Channel, the narrow stretch of sea between the Antrim coast and Scotland. The district is unique in that it includes Northern Ireland's only inhabited offshore island – Rathlin. The area's best known international export is the world famous Bushmills Whiskey.

Whilst the Moyle district is largely rural in character (covering 190 square miles and with a resident population of 15,933), it is within a 25-mile radius of some of Northern Ireland's principal towns – Ballymena, Coleraine and Larne. This gives the district a further travel to work catchment population of over 150,000.

Population

The population of the Moyle District has increased by 10.6% over the past twenty years, from 14,396 in 1981 to some 15,933 in 2001 (Table 1).

Table 1

Source: The Northern Ireland Census 1991/2001, General Register Office 2002

Population Age Profile

The district's age structure is very similar to the Northern Ireland average, where a higher than average birth rate has meant that the population has not aged to the same extent as other regions. However, this birth rate has slowed down, resulting in the proportion of children in the local population decreasing, and leading to increases in the proportion of people of working age (Table 2).

Notes: Children are defined as those in the population aged 16 and under.

Working age is defined as the female population aged 16 to 59 and the male population aged 16 to 64.

Pensioners are defined as the female population aged 60 and over and the male population aged 65 and over.

Industry & Employment

Services play a vital role in the local economy, accounting for more than 80% of total employment. Whilst public services account for just over a third of all local employment, the district is particularly strong in private services.

This strength in services is best illustrated by the Hotel and Catering sector (table 5), where more than twice the number of people work in this sector than the Northern Ireland average. This reflects Moyle's status as a key tourist designation in Northern Ireland, which is due principally to the fact that it has such outstanding assets as the Giant's Causeway, the Glens of Antrim, Rathlin Island and Bushmills Distillery.

From a retailing perspective, the towns of Ballycastle, Bushmills and Cushendall are traditional market towns typified by attractive shopping areas which contain a range of independent, specialist shops. These contrast with, and complement, the neighbouring provincial towns of Ballymena and Coleraine, with their many high street multiples.

Whilst manufacturing plays a fairly minor role in the district, the construction sector is very well represented, with employment levels almost twice the Northern Ireland average.

Agriculture continues to play an important role in the economic life of the district. This sector accounts for just over half (53%) of the 735 VAT registered enterprises in the district and provides full and part-time employment for some 1,266 people (Census of Agriculture, 2001).

The district's agricultural sector is complemented by a vibrant agri-food sector where a variety of key food and drinks processors such as Bushmills Whiskey, Glens of Antrim Potatoes and Glens of Antrim Spring Water have a presence in the district.

Table 6 Key Companies in the Moyle Area by number employed include:

Employment Trends

Whilst the Moyle district has historically recorded higher than average unemployment rates, the past four years has seen a dramatic convergence to the Northern Ireland average, with figures in April 1999 of 13.9% dropping to 3.6% by April 2003 (Table 7)

Northern Ireland	7%	5%	3.3%

Source: DETI

This decrease can be explained by the fact that the number of available jobs within the district has actually increased significantly over the past ten years. Since 1993, Moyle has experienced a 20% increase in the number of available jobs. Much of this job creation has arisen from opportunities within the district's service sector (primarily retail and leisure) and construction sector.

Education and Training

Moyle is serviced by four secondary schools within the district and a range of renowned grammar schools in the neighbouring towns of Ballymena, Coleraine, Larne and Portstewart. Such high levels of provision have resulted in an overall standard of education that is above the Northern Ireland average.

Regarding third level education, Moyle is within close proximity to the University of Ulster at Coleraine, with its 5,000 students and strong commitment to collaborative R&D projects.

There is a broad range of statutory training and employment support provision available in Moyle, with a number of locally based organisations offering vocational training across a wide range of business and industrial disciplines.

Transport and Access

The Moyle District Council area is situated in the North-

East corner of Northern Ireland and is located just 14 miles from the coast of Scotland.

Ferry services operate from Ballycastle to Rathlin Island and moves are afoot to introduce a direct daily roll-on-roll-off ferry link between Ballycastle and Campbelltown on the Mull of Kintyre in Scotland.

Ballycastle is within a 25-mile radius of some of Northern Ireland's principal towns - Ballymena, Coleraine and Larne and is just over an hours drive from Belfast.

Housing

House prices in the Moyle/North Coast area, like elsewhere in Northern Ireland, have performed well in recent years. The average 2002 house price in the district, at £90,911, is 95% of the Northern Ireland average, and represents an increase of 15% on the same time last year.

Whilst the average price is £90,911, it is important to note that there is considerable variation in price across the different property types (table 9). This varies from the price of detached bungalows costing about three quarters of the Northern Ireland average to detached houses averaging 10% more than elsewhere in Northern Ireland.

Such figures illustrate the fact that the district offers a combination of affordable housing for the first time buyer with a mix of sound investment properties.

Tourism

Moyle is one of the major tourist destinations in Northern Ireland. Designated an area of outstanding natural beauty, the district is home to the Giant's Causeway, Northern Ireland's leading visitor attraction with up to 400,000 visitors annually.

Along this dramatic stretch of the Causeway Coast there is an abundance of modern and historic attractions vying for the visitor's attention, including the glorious Whitepark Bay and Murlough Bay, quaint Ballintoy Harbour, majestic Fair Head, Rathlin Island with its rare bird life and three lighthouses, the breathtaking rope bridge at Carrick-a-Rede, and the fabled nine Glens of Antrim.

The district is also home to the world famous Old Bushmills Distillery.

Table 10
Key Visitor Attractions

	No. Visitors 2001

Old Bushmills Distillery	97,130
Carrick-a-Rede Rope Bridge	94,382
Glenariff Forest Park	39,800
Rathlin Island	36,000

Giant's Causeway

Ireland's top tourist attraction and an UNESCO World Heritage site, the world famous Giant's Causeway displays formations of approximately 40,000 six sided basalt columns. Coast and cliff paths are popular for exploration and the wreck site of the Armada treasure ship "Girona" is found at Port-na-Spaniagh. The Causeway includes a visitor centre with interpretive displays, audiovisual theatre, tourist information and National Trust shop.

Rathlin Island

Rathlin Island lies just over six miles from Ballycastle and fourteen miles from the Mull of Kintyre, Scotland. Rathlin is popular with bird watchers, geologists, botanists, divers and sea anglers - and anyone with a love for wild, rugged scenery. Rathlin's population is just over 100 and the islanders are proud of their culture and traditions, with story telling, songs, music and dance being popular leisure pursuits.

Carrick-a-Rede

The Carrick-a-Rede rope bridge crosses a 24m deep chasm which gives access to a salmon fishery. The island offers stunning views over the sea to the Scottish coast.

Bushmills Distillery

The "Old Bushmills" distillery is the world's oldest licensed whiskey distillery. King James I granted the original licence to distil "Acqua Vitae" in 1608 and Bushmills has been making the finest Irish Malt Whiskey for almost four hundred years since.

Visitors to the distillery are invited on a guided tour to experience the craft and skills of making Irish whiskey, before enjoying a complimentary glass of the final product, one of the famous Bushmills whiskeys.

Glens of Antrim

From Ballycastle to Glenarm, the Glens of Antrim slowly unfold along fifty miles of stunning coastline. The glens are characterised by tumbling waterfalls, rushing rivers, lush forest parks and spectacular scenery where visitors are spoilt for choice of things to do. From hiking and golf to bird watching and fishing, all are available in the area. Water sports, sailing and a full range of outdoor pursuits are also on offer.

Glenariff Forest Park

Glenariff Forest Park offers the visitor a spectacular glen walk along three waterfalls and includes a visitor centre, shop and restaurant.

Ballycastle Beach and Marina

Ballycastle is home to two European Blue Flag winning facilities - its beach and marina. The blue flag is given to resort beaches that comply with European awards of cleanliness, beach supervision, provision of life saving equipment, dog control, wheelchair access and the highest standard of bathing water under EC legislation. Ballycastle's superb 74-berth Marina is one of only 12 in the whole of the UK to be judged good enough to hoist the blue flag.

Cultural Activities

One of the key attractions of life in the Moyle District is its wealth of culture, which is evident in the music, song and dance of the area. This rich culture is best expressed in the many "fleadhs" or festivals held in the area, which are enjoyed by both locals and visitors alike. Key festivals organised in the district include: the Glens of Antrim festival (Feis na Gleann), the Ballycastle Fleadh, the Heart of the Glens Festival, the Finn MacCool Festival and the celebrated Ould Lammais Fair.

Leisure and Sports

Sports and leisure provision are well provided for in the district and cater for both visitors and residents alike.

Golfers of all levels are accommodated at the district's two golf clubs at Ballycastle (18 Hole) and Cushendall (9 Hole), whilst Ballycastle is also home to 5 grass and 6 all weather tennis courts at the Sheskburn Recreation Centre. The town also boasts two privately owned swimming pools at the Marine Hotel and Silvercliffs Caravan Park.

Trout and Salmon angling is catered for through the district's three river networks. The Dun is the biggest of the Glens of Antrim rivers. Born on the upper slopes of Glendunn, where it winds its way down to the Irish Sea at Cushendun, the Dun offers seatrout, brown trout and salmon fishing. The Dall and Glenariff are smaller but offer excellent sea trout fishing.

The Margy, Carey & Glenshesk (Glen) river system is dominated by the Margy. Rich in seatrout, the Margy can be fly fished along the golf course beats at Ballycastle. In September and October large salmon are plentiful.

The standard by which all salmon fisheries might be judged, the River Bush offers an exceptional standard of salmon fishing. In Bushmills village, the beat boasts purpose-built pools as well as carefully managed fly-fishing-friendly banks. Brown trout also abounds on the Bush.

As an area of outstanding natural beauty, walking is a must for all visitors to the district. Key walks include: The Moyle Way, which follows a way marked track between Ballycastle and Glenariff through the Antrim Coast and the Glens, Ballycastle Long Distance Walks (4-18km), Cushendall Cliff Path, Cushendall River Walk, Giant's Causeway Coast Way, Cushendun Heritage Trail, Glenariff River Walk (which is part of the Ulster Way) and Ballycastle Tow River Walk.

Other Outdoor Activities include rafting, rockclimbing & abseiling, available at the Ardclinis Outdoor Adventure in Cushendall, Pony Trekking at Watertop Farm, Ballycastle and Sailing at Cushendall Sailing & Boating Club.

MANUFACTURING

Manufacturing contributes significantly to the economic life of the district. There is a diverse range of manufacturing companies located within Moyle, the majority of which employ less than ten people. The district has a vibrant agri-food sector which includes key food and drinks producers such as the world famous Old Bushmills Whiskey and Glens of Antrim Potatoes, the two largest manufacturing employers in Moyle.

BUSINESS & PROFESSIONAL SERVICES

Within the Moyle District Council area, a variety of organisations provide professional services to both business and residential clients. Included within this section are listings for architectural services, accountants and legal services, banking and financial services, business consultants, training and IT.

Three major high street banks, the Northern Bank, Ulster Bank and the First Trust bank, have branches in Moyle. Whilst all three banks have branches in Ballycastle itself, the Northern Bank also provides three additional branches in Armoy, Bushmills and Cushendall.

RETAIL

The towns of Ballycastle , Bushmills and Cushendall are traditional market towns, typified by attractive shopping areas which contain a range of independent locally owned shops. These contrast with, and compliment the neighbouring provincial towns of Ballymena and Coleraine, with their many high street multiples, maintaining the unique and individual character of the district.

The key grocery retailers tend to be independently owned symbol group retailers trading under the Supervalu, Centra, Co-Op, Costcutter, Spar and Mace brand names.

Moyle also has a number of specialist craft and gift shops, which cater for the needs of the many visitors to the district.

HOSPITALITY SERVICES

As one of Northern Ireland's leading tourist destinations, Moyle has a well-established hospitality industry. The district boasts four hotels, eleven guesthouses, sixty-eight B&B's, seventy-five self-catering premises and seven youth hostels, providing quality accommodation to suit all budgets.

Amongst its many attractions, Moyle is home to the world famous Giant's Causeway, which attracts almost 400,000 tourists each year from across the world. Moyle is also home to Northern Ireland's only inhabited island - Rathlin.

TRANSPORT AND TRAVEL

Public transport in Moyle includes coach, bus and taxi services. Whilst there are a number of privately owned coach hire and taxi operators within Moyle, the main provider of scheduled bus services in the region is Translink.

A boat service operates between Ballycastle and Rathlin Island, Northern Ireland's only inhabited off shore island. Between June and September, there are four return sailings per day; this is reduced to two return crossings per day during the rest of the year.
